additional comments

This course has wide open fairways in some areas and some wooded areas. The terrain varies from gently sloping to rolling. There are many sand bunkers and mounding. The greens are large and elevated. Ten ponds and three streams come into play on several different occasions. The most difficult hole is #5, a 400-yard, par 4, with an approach shot over a stream to the green, which is protected by two ponds on either side and sand bunkers. Nine holes may be played weekdays before noon.
